

Missing pets - micro chip your pet

Contributed by MyPetFriends
Sunday, 19 August 2007

Thank god for micro chipping technology, where would we be without it? (Teddy: lost I guess). With all the talk of lost pets, pets being abducted or even stolen and some pets disappearing and then being found hundreds of miles away (see full story on my pet friends by clicking here), micro chipping technology is allowing us to keep close to our owners and most of all – safe. We’ve been micro chipped and at only a few pounds each that’s a great cost for knowing that if we’re ever parted from our owners, we can easily be reunited following a quick scan.

-

So, if you’re a pet owner who cares for their pet, do get them micro chipped, you can find micro chipping services in the My Pet Friends pet business directory, under the vets category or in pet shops or by doing a search for micro chipping services.

-

Until the next time, take care my pet friends.

-

-

{moscomment}